

Hawaiian Gazette

EST MODUS IN REBUS.

12-PAGE EDITION.

TUESDAY, NOV. 11, 1890.

THE House settled down to business in earnest Nov. 3d, and got through with considerable work, for which the members really deserve to be patted on the back. The election law with its one hundred and seven sections was finished and passed to a committee for revision. The consideration of the labor bill was next in order. A question arose as to its being constitutional, and a committee of two, the Attorney-General and Rep. C. Brown, were appointed to draft questions to the Supreme Court for an opinion. A report was read from the special committee on the resignation of Dr. Lutz. In the afternoon four bills passed to their third reading, while eleven others were not so fortunate—they were all indefinitely postponed.

THE editor of the Bulletin in last Tuesday's issue, puts himself forward as the Champion of Moreno, Bush and Wilcox. And this is done with an alacrity that proves him to be in full sympathy with this trio of Hawaiian patriots. We called attention to the Moreno article, which appeared lately in the Washington Post, lauding Bush and Wilcox as the coming Cabinet Ministers, merely to show that the recent disgraceful effort to oust the Cabinet was done for the sole object of putting Bush and Wilcox in the Cabinet, for which they are as unfitted as Moreno himself would be. It served as the key, exposing the motives that inspired the attempt, which fortunately for the peace of Hawaii proved a complete failure.

Regarding the publication of the seditious speeches of Bush and Wilcox, threatening blood and thunder, if they could not carry their point, and overturn the Cabinet and the Constitution, we assert that the publication of these addresses has had a good and the desired effect of suppressing such revolutionary utterances, of which not one word has been heard since. But if they shall again be uttered, this paper will hold itself ready to publish them, and give them the benefit of a circulation of 2,500 issues, believing that the widest publicity is the surest cure of seditious harangues here as it has always been elsewhere.

Vice is a monster of such hideous mien, That to be hated needs but to be seen.

THE election for Governor, State officers and Representatives in Congress from California was to take place November 4th. One new Senator in Congress to take the place of Senator Stanford will also be chosen by the Legislature that is to be elected. Great interest has been taken in this election throughout the State, chiefly on account of the new tariff, which favorably affects California fruit, canning, wine and spirit interests, the protective duty on which has been increased, and will be maintained if the Republican party is successful and perhaps lowered if the Democrats gain a majority in Congress in this fall's elections.

The nominees of both parties for Governor are popular men, and well known throughout the State. Ed. E. Pond, the Democratic nominee, has been Mayor of San Francisco for three years, and is highly respected; and the same may be said of Col. Markham, the Republican nominee for Governor, who is a prominent lawyer and capitalist of Southern California, residing at Pasadena. Judging from the tone of the California papers, the latter is extremely popular, and will carry all the southern counties by heavy majorities. The Republicans appear to be very confident of electing their Governor by at least ten thousand majority, though the Democrats elected their Governor two years ago. The Australia, which leaves San Francisco, November 7th, will bring the news of the result of the election in California and in several other States.

THE ADVERTISER is the leading daily paper of the Kingdom.

MISREPRESENTATIONS CORRECTED.

The Ka Leo o Ka Lahui, of the 29th ult., copies an article from the Washington Post by that patriotic Hawaiian, Cesar Celso Moreno, from whom we learn sundry items of interest. First, that the self-styled "Voice of the Nation" is the organ of the National Reform Party, whereupon we beg to congratulate them. We are also told that the said Moreno was formerly Prime Minister of Hawaii, but the readers of the Post are not informed of the fact that the Moreno premiership lasted five days and that those five days sufficed to get us into nearly serious trouble with the Representatives here of the three Great Powers!

In like manner the Post relates the fact that Mr. J. E. Bush has been twice a member of the Cabinet, but we here know more of the circumstances of Mr. Bush's incumbencies than might be convenient for the Post to recite.

Now comes the pith of the matter. Mr. Moreno certifies of his own personal knowledge that Mr. Bush and R. W. Wilcox are "learned and progressive native Hawaiians" and should be called upon to guide the ship of state. To judge of their fitness for such a charge, we need not, though we might, refer farther back than the journals of the present Legislature. The bundles of illegal leases granted by Mr. Bush during his former tenure of office, the foolishly incendiary speeches of Mr. Wilcox, which only failed in creating mischief by reason of their utter foolishness, the military bill which he introduced and then wished to withdraw on the appearance of an amendment, may help to gauge the fitness for rule of these "typical Hawaiian patriots." Only suppose that the abortive attempt to upset the present Ministry had succeeded, what should we have seen? The recall of the typical Hawaiian patriot Moreno, and the possible establishment of such a triumvirate as Hawaii has never yet been tried with, sore as her trials have been.

In spite of the persistent misrepresentations of her enemies and false friends alike, Hawaii is not so completely misunderstood by the people of the United States as to allow the utterances of this triumvirate any possibility of influencing the policy of the American government towards us. Our interests have been rudely pushed aside in the sweeping changes of the McKinley tariff, and it best becomes us to avoid sensational or melodramatic pranks in the face of such keen observers as those who are watching us.

A series of such orations as have been delivered both within the House and on the street by the Bush-Wilcox faction, or the mere proposal of re-habilitating Moreno as a possible factor in the Government of this country does us more harm in the States than can be corrected by any amount of tourist-advertising.

WISE LEGISLATIVE ACTION.

The discussion on Monday morning concerning the bill entitled an Act to Authorize the introduction of Chinese Agricultural Laborers and to amend Chapter XXVIII of 1887, was, we are happy to say, conducted with patience, good feeling and good judgment, in striking contrast with the style of the utterances of the candidates of the National Reform Party in the construction of their platform, and in the election speeches of their more prominent members.

The necessity of making provision for an adequate supply, adequate if possible, of agricultural laborers seems to have reached the understanding of its opponents without the necessity of performing on them the surgical operation which they so ferociously threatened to apply to all wicked planters and capitalists.

The question was taken up seriously, and its difficulties recognized by both sides. To ask the opinion of the Supreme Court as to the constitutionality of the proposed Act, is undoubtedly a step in the right direction, and to bear in mind that an opinion on an ex parte question is not a decision on a question of law, is also necessary. Finally, the appointment of the Attorney-General and an able law representative as a Committee to formulate the question to be submitted to the Bench, is a procedure alike wise and careful.

The time seems to be almost past, except to some correspondents of the Bulletin, to represent the planters as eager "to flood the country with Mongolian serfs;" it is already understood, and what is more, admitted, that it is neither pleasurable nor profitable to a planter to find his trained out-door hands decamping at a critical period in the saving of his crop, and be obliged with infinite difficulty and great loss to track and train new men at a wage in advance of that which the old hands were worth. It is not a source of congratulation to the planter to find that of the thousands of Chinamen he has helped to bring here less than one-half are available for the plantations; but it is a source of congratulation for the producing interests to be met with co-operation instead of reviling, to find earnest, honest endeavor to solve the difficult labor question take the place of unreasoning obstruction.

For three years the Reform Ministry conscientiously carried out the restriction laws with the effect of sensibly reducing the number of Chinamen in the country, and by so doing have helped, no doubt, in raising wages and increasing the labor difficulties of planters, since by no law yet devised can Chinamen be kept away from mechanical and restricted to agricultural labor. Yet this is the task now before the Legislature. We believe that it may, and hope that it may be done, and feel encouraged in our belief and hope by the proceedings of the Monday session.
